

PGNiG Supply & Trading GmbH (PST) is the international trading arm of the Orlen Group with offices in Munich, London and Warsaw. We are active in the European energy trading industry and globally on the LNG market. Based on our extensive international network we have direct access to all relevant European energy markets. We are a reliable energy supplier and a trustworthy partner.

Our experts in risk and portfolio management work on ambitious and custom fit solutions in order to maximize the profitability of the energy procurement of our wholesale customers.

To support our team in the Munich Head Office, we are looking for a:

(Junior) Risk Management Specialist (m/w/d)

Your responsibilities:

- Risk reporting of commodities such as natural gas, power and oil.
- Evaluation and analysis of positions, profit & loss and associated risk indicators.
- Analysis of credit risk and rating of trading partners.
- Development of existing risk assessment models and reporting processes.
- Participation in cross-divisional projects.
- Support of the ETRM system development.

Your profile:

- Successfully completed university degree (e.g. in finance, economics, math, engineering, science or similar studies) or proven professional experience,
- Strong analytical skills, numerically inclined, grasping complex issues quickly.
- A team player with a proactive approach.
- Knowledge of financial products and associated security instruments, ideally in the energy industry, would be an asset.
- Proficient with the standard Microsoft Office programs, especially Excel. VBA programming and database applications (SQL) would be an advantage.
- Very good command of written and spoken English.

We offer you an attractive international working environment in an industry with good prospects for development.

If you are interested to join our team, we look forward to receiving your application by e-mail: jobs@pst-energie.com